DEAF FEST 2007, Coming on September 16th

A Cultural Celebration for Everyone! Free Admission, Parking, Entertainment and Children Activities!!

The New Jersey Deaf Awareness Week (NJDAW) committee invites you to the Ninth Deaf Fest to be held September 16, 2007, which will again take place at the Middlesex County Fairgrounds in East Brunswick, New Jersey. Admission, parking, entertainment and activities for the children are all free. This is the second year at this location due to the tremendous success of the last biennial event. The fairgrounds are conveniently located in the center of the state, which is easily accessible by the major highways. The parking lot is located in front of the grounds with close proximity to all of the activities. The entire event occurs in a safe, fenced-off arena.

We look forward to many New Jersey Deaf and hard of hearing residents joining us at the event, which celebrates Deaf culture with the support of many agencies, companies and non-profit organizations as they exhibit information and products. This is the best possible opportunity to come out and see old friends; and, people make new friends during this wonderful celebration. There will be entertainment, food vendors, exhibits and activities throughout the day.

The planning and preparation for Deaf Fest 2007 is a monumental task. We extend our thanks to the committee, volunteers and friends for their continued hard work and contributions. We also want to give a special thanks to the NJ Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing for their ongoing support of providing communication access at the event. Many thanks are also in order to Northwest Jersey Association of the Deaf (NWJAD) for sponsoring and planning Kiddie Korner, which they have done at every Deaf Fest event since 1994.

The event is on a Sunday, and it will begin at 10:00 a.m. and conclude at 5:00 p.m. See you on September 16th!

DDHH Broadens Communication Accessibility

The New Jersey Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DDHH) has acquired the services of Language Line, a company that has the capability of interpreting 170 different languages. Consequently, virtually anyone who speaks another language may call the DDHH office and within a moment can be connected to a third party to facilitate communication. This particular service is for voice callers only. However, the New Jersey Relay also offers Spanish and French interpretation for TTY users .

MKSD Lower School Graduation Ceremony

On Friday, June 22 at 10:00 a.m., graduates from the Lower School of the Marie Katzenback School for the Deaf (MSKD) were joined by teaching and administrative staff, along with some very proud parents, family and friends, to witness the completion of a milestone in the lives of these young elementary school children. Students were given awards for an array of accomplishments; in return, students entertained everyone in attendance with performances and expressions of gratitude to their families for assisting with this achievement. Congratulations MKSD Lower School graduates!

The Month of July in History

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) was signed by President George Herbert Walker Bush on July 26, 1990. The ADA is a wide-ranging civil rights law, which prohibits, under certain circumstances, discrimination based on disability. It affords similar protections against discrimination to Americans with disabilities as the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which made discrimination based on race, religion, sex, national origin, and other characteristics illegal.

The Month of August in History

George Veditz was born on August 13, 1861 and was a native of Baltimore, MD. He became deaf near the age of 9, when he contracted scarlet fever. When he was 14, he went to Maryland School for the Deaf in Frederick, MD. Twice elected president of NAD (National Association of the Deaf), George W. Veditz advocated sign language and was a foe of oralism. During his presidency of the NAD (from 1907 to 1910), he started to raise money to use the new film technology for recording examples of signers - hearing and deaf. At age 19, he went to Gallaudet College. He taught at Maryland School for the Deaf, and then at Colorado School for the Deaf where he met his future wife, Mary Elizabeth Bigler. Veditz established three organizations for the deaf. One was the Maryland School for the Deaf Alumni Association in 1892; second was the Gallaudet College Alumni Association in 1889; and third was the Colorado Association for the Deaf in 1904. He died on March 12, 1937.

Alice Cogswell was born on August 31, 1805. She was introduced to Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, founder The American School for the Deaf (ASD), the oldest school for Deaf students in the United States, while he was recovering from an illness. Alice had been deafened by a childhood illness and could not communicate with her parents or siblings very well because they did not know any sign language. Gallaudet believed that Alice could be educated to communicate. Gallaudet studied at the French Institute for the Deaf in Paris and returned to America with Laurent Clerc, a teacher from the institute. Together they founded ASD, which has educated about 4000 deaf students. In the sculpture pictured on the right, young Alice Cogswell stands in the palms of two cupped hands that form the word "light" in sign language. She holds a book in front of her that represents the education she and others received because of the founding of this school.

Family Learning Conference Repeats Success in Northern New Jersey

Steve Toth, Interpreter Traci Burton, DDHH Representative

The second biannual “New Jersey Family Learning Conference for Families with Children who are Deaf and Hard of Hearing: Empowering Families with Children who are Deaf and Hard of Hearing” took place at The Lake Drive Program in Mountain Lakes on Saturday May 19, 2007. The twenty-eight parents in attendance benefited from a variety of workshops, while their children (ranging in age from 15 months to 16 years) enjoyed children’s activities arranged by the conference committee.

Dennis Jones, author of Tarnished Halos and Crooked Fences: A Journey into the World of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, delivered a poignant keynote address on identity entitled “You Can’t Build a House Without a Foundation.” Traci Burton and Jason Weiland, DDHH Field Representatives, followed Jones and presented “Technology and Family: Building Better Relationships.” The conference continued with the presentation of the Brian C. Shomo Parent Leadership Award that honors parents who excel in advocating for their children. Diane Klemm and Jeanine Gleba were this year’s recipients.

Student's panel discusses issues of being Deaf and the important role which families play in their support network.

Parents And Children Enjoy Conference Activities

After lunch, the parents chose from three concurrent breakout sessions. Robert A. Robinson, Esq., staff attorney, New Jersey Protection and Advocacy, Inc. spoke about “Advocating for Your Children’s Rights;” “Communication and Families” was brought to us by Hilary Porteous-Nye, BS, LMSW, SR. Mental Health Therapist, Access Behavioral health Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. Carolyn Hayer, director, Parent and Professional Development Coordinator, and Region 1 Technical Assistance to Parent Centers at SPAN presented “Transitions in Education.” The group reconvened for the student panel where Carly Skibinski, age 11, Summit Speech School, Class of 2002; Maya Ariel, age 17, The Lake Drive Program, Class of 2007; Brad Sternberg, age 18, The Lake Drive Program, Class of 2007; Noah Beckman, age 21, Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf, Class of 2003; and Rebecca DeVito, age 19, Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf, Class of 2005, relayed their experiences and entertained questions regarding growing up and attending school as students who are deaf and hard of hearing.

Throughout the day, parents were able to visit various vendor booths, including the “Ask the Audiologist” room where Christine Hoffman, Au.D., CCC-A, FAAA; Janet M. Purn, M.A., CCC-A and Nancy Schneider, M.A., CCC-A, FAAA were available to answer questions. Both films “Sound and Fury” and “Sound and Fury – 6 Years Later” ran continuously during the conference for those who wanted to stop and watch.

The 2007 Family Learning Conference Planning Committee, chaired by Malia Corde and Amy Littles, thanks all who attended and made this day a success!

Open Captioning Theatre Series Opens New Worlds To New Jersey Audiences with Hearing Loss

The New Jersey Theatre Alliance and the New Jersey Department of Human Services Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, through the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, offer a new program of accessibility.

(Morristown, NJ) More than 700,000 people in New Jersey have some degree of hearing loss often identified as Deaf, hard of hearing, late-deafened, or Deaf-Blind. In an effort to create opportunities for them to enjoy live theatre, the New Jersey Department of Human Services Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DDHH) has granted the New Jersey Theatre Alliance, in partnership with the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, $45,000 to market and administer, the Open Captioning Series – a group of performances at the state’s professional theatres.

Open Captioning is text displayed on a screen simultaneously to live speech, dialogue or performance. Like “Closed Captioning – a service that is offered on television programs for people with hearing loss,” – Open Captioning benefits a growing number of people who have profound hearing loss and affords them the opportunity to experience the excitement and joy of live theatre. While many of New Jersey’s professional theatres offer sign language interpreted performances and listening enhancement systems, not all people who live with hearing loss benefit fully from such programs/services.

The Open Captioning Series is the first of its kind nationally. It is a New Jersey statewide program that will provide 32 open captioned performances from Teaneck to Cape May, Red Bank to Hackettstown. Patrons can go see one show or many. They also will be able to create their own “mini-subscription” of Open Captioned performances through the Theatre Alliance’s Sampler Series – a discount ticketing program that makes it possible for patrons to see three different performances at the state’s professional theatres for just $70. The free Open Captioning Calendar detailing dates and times of the program is available through the Theatre Alliance.

Carol Granaldi, co-founder and past president of the Hearing Loss Association of New Jersey, says of the series, “As one who progressed from a normally hearing childhood to profoundly deaf adulthood, I had to give up attending live theater. My residual hearing became too inadequate to utilize the assistive listening equipment.” But after discovering Open Captioning she has become a regular theatergoer again. “Unless you have been excluded from the spoken word, you cannot imagine how ‘connected’ deafened people like me have become through the marvel of captioning.”

The Theatre Alliance is delighted to offer this statewide program. “A statewide Open Captioning Series has been a dream of the Alliance for years, so we are thrilled to see it come to fruition. Without the leadership support of the New Jersey Department of Human Services Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, many of our member theatres would not be in the position to offer open captioning; we are so happy that our partnership with these two agencies has made it possible for our members to open their doors to people with hearing loss, allowing them to fully embrace the joy of live theatre,” said John McEwen, Executive Director of the New Jersey Theatre Alliance.

Acting Director of DDHH Ira C. Hock agrees, “At Human Services, we are thrilled that our division’s funding will open cultural opportunities to people with hearing loss so they too can enjoy the theater in New Jersey.”

To receive a free copy of the Open Captioning Series Calendar, please contact: New Jersey Theatre Alliance, 163 Madison Avenue, Suite 500, Morristown, NJ, 07960, or e-mail: info@njtheatrealliance.org and request the Open Captioning Series Calendar in the subject line.

Happy Anniversary!

Celebrating its 25th year, the New Jersey Theatre Alliance is the only statewide organization for professional, not-for-profit theatre companies in the United States. The Alliance is a leader in developing model programs that foster collaboration, cooperation and audience development. It provides its member theatres and arts patrons a wide range of supportive services and programs. The Alliance assists member theatres in their growth and development, as well as the promotion of their programs, helping them reach their full potential. For the arts patron, the Alliance is able to provide a variety of services to enhance their theatre-going experience. For more information, and to find out about its programs and services, visit the Alliance at www.njtheatrealliance.org or call (973) 540-0515 ext. 14.

Funding for the New Jersey Theatre Alliance, a not-for-profit organization, is provided in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, a Partner Agency of the National Endowment for the Arts, as well as contributions from foundations, corporations, businesses and individuals. American Airlines is the official airline of the New Jersey Theatre Alliance.

23rd Deaf and Hard of Hearing Awareness Day at Great Adventure

Beautiful weather, a drive through safari, the tallest and fastest roller coaster around, food, games, entertainment and hundreds of Deaf and hard of hearing people and their friends and family combined to make for a wonderful Deaf and Hard of Hearing Awareness Day at Six Flags Great Adventure on Saturday, June 16. This year marked DDHH's 23rd successive year of sponsorship of the event. One of the highlights of the day was the program held in the indoor pavilion, which featured The Wild Zappers and a highly energetic 40 minute performance that included dancers from the American Black Dance Theatre. 325 people enjoyed this presentation as it was introduced by emcee Joey Garth.

Information for Patients with Hearing Loss in Medical/Hospital Settings

Last month, the Hearing Loss Association of New Jersey offered you some everyday hints for making hearing “easier.” We continue this month with additional information directed toward professionals who provide related services to people with hearing loss.

Professionals within the medical field or those in hospital settings are often unfamiliar with what is required to provide the person with a hearing loss with full medical information about his/her emergency or medical condition. Therefore, in the emergency room or the hospital, it is important for the patient to inform any physician/nurse/technician/intake personnel with his/her specific communication needs so that he/she will be able to understand his/her condition and any follow-up procedures, including medications that may be prescribed.

Communication tips from last month's article are briefly noted below since they are also essential in medical/hospital settings :

- Be sure that the speaker has no bright light or window behind him/her.
- Look directly at the speaker.
- Request that the speaker enunciate clearly.
- Have the speaker use a normal tone of voice and a normal rate of speech.
- If you require repetition of a sentence, ask the speaker to rephrase.
- Reduce background noise as much as possible.

The following pointers specifically relate to the medical setting:

1. Inform the healthcare professional, if you are able to do so, that he/she is to direct all questions to you and not to anyone who may have accompanied you. Remember, you are the patient!
2. Inform each individual that you wear hearing aids or have a cochlear implant. Make them aware of any medical precautions you require, such as no MRI.
3. Insist that your hearing loss and hearing device be noted on the outside of your chart and on each subsequent sheet that may be added to your chart. (It would be best to carry small stickers with you, displaying the International Symbol of Access For Hearing Loss, which can be obtained from the Hearing Loss Association of America. These can be put on the front of your chart indicating that you have a hearing loss, and they should also be given to your primary care physician and any specialists from whom you receive services.)
4. Ask if you may continue to wear your hearing device during any examination.
5. When it becomes necessary to remove your device, be sure that one person on staff is made responsible for it. Obtain that individual's name and ask the length of time you will be without the device.
6. Be sure you know where the person responsible for your hearing aid or cochlear implant processor will keep the device during any examinations, tests, or other procedures.
7. Carry several small index cards with you. You can note your hearing loss on them and attach them to any hospital garments you may be requested to wear. They will also serve to indicate to other casual staff personnel (technicians) in hallways or examining rooms who may not have been properly informed of your hearing loss.

8. Create or obtain the larger hearing loss symbol (slashed ear) to be attached to your gurney or bed when in the hospital. This will enable everyone who enters your room to immediately be aware of your hearing loss. Hospitals should provide this, but be prepared with your own just in case.
9. If surgery is indicated, discuss with the physician, anesthesiologist, nurses, etc. how they will interact with you before, during, and after surgery and how soon your device will be returned to you. Necessary information should be given to you before surgical masks are put on.
10. If you must remain in the hospital, be sure that the administration and staff are made aware that you will not be able to answer any questions asked of you via an intercom system. Also, make them aware that you normally remove your device when asleep at night.
11. Be sure that the hospital administration provides you with a television that is closed captioned. If you use a TV assistive listening device that allows you to hear the television at the sound level you require, let the hospital know this. Since most hospital beds now have individualized sound systems within the handheld remote, you don't want to disturb a roommate.
12. A telephone must also be provided with regard to your specific needs, such as an amplified phone or a voice carryover (VCO) TTY or CapTel.

And remember to always have your handy paper and pencil! Situations sometimes don't work the way we hope.

This series of articles on coping with hearing loss are being offered by the Hearing Loss Association of New Jersey (formerly SHHH-NJ). For more information about this organization, please contact Judy Ginsberg at judygin@comcast.net.

The Bergen County chapter of the Hearing Loss Association of America (HLAA) welcomed DDHH Representative Traci Burton to present during their June 13th meeting at the Classic Residence in Teaneck, NJ. Some topics discussed were an introduction to the NJ Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing services, strategies of identifying yourself as an individual with a hearing loss if you are pulled over by the police, various telephonic devices including CapTel, and the equipment loan program through the NJ Library for the Blind and Handicapped Deaf and Hard of Hearing Awareness Program. If you are interested in a similar program, please contact Traci at 609-984-7281 or traci.burton@dhs.state.nj.us.

HLAA Region II Conference

“All 4 To Hear”

October 5 - 7, 2007

You are invited to attend the first Hearing Loss Association Regional Conference of Delaware, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, the four states that comprise Region II of the Hearing Loss Association of America governing board. The conference is designed to give participants the opportunity to explore new hearing technologies and to learn more about coping with hearing loss. The conference will be held at the Hilton Harrisburg in downtown Harrisburg, just minutes from the Amtrak train station and the Capitol Complex. Harrisburg is conveniently located at the intersection of I-81, I-83 and the PA turnpike.

The program will include a special workshop, Emergency Preparedness for People who are Hard of Hearing, Deaf or Deaf-Blind, presented by Lise Hamlin, Regional Emergency Preparedness Specialist, Northern Virginia Resource Center for Deaf & Hard of Hearing Persons (NVRC). A research symposium will feature Dr. Anil Lalwani with new information from the exciting field of hair cell regeneration. Workshops will present the latest information about hearing aids, cochlear implants, coping with hearing loss and assistive technology. The Exhibit Hall will offer opportunities to see and try the latest in hearing technology and assistive devices. There will be plenty of time for social activities and just plain fun! Of course, all conference events will be hearing accessible.

Northwest Jersey Association of the Deaf (NWJAD)

hosted its annual Easter and Spring Party on March 25, 2007.

Over 100 people, including adults and children, enjoyed the magic show and two balloon makers. The children had lots of fun hitting the piñatas, which were full of candies. The children loved getting their picture taken with the Deaf bunny who gave them more candies. There were lots of pizza, sweet treats, and drinks available for everybody. We would like to give a special thank to Lori Adams and Lauren Kafka for volunteering to interpret the magic show.

On April 21st, we had a general meeting and an extremely informative presentation by Dr. Geralyn Ponzio, currently a family doctor in Montclair, NJ who has some knowledge of sign language. Dr. Ponzio was able to answer some important questions regarding health concerns that were asked. She emphasized to those in attendance the importance of taking better care of themselves. We greatly appreciate the Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DDHH) for providing the two interpreters which made the event accessible. We intend to have Dr. Ponzio return with in the fall with another topic.

We are very excited to sponsor the Kiddie Korner activities at the Deaf Fest this coming September. We are planning to have new activities available for the kids. Also, don't forget to plan to attend Deaf Fest 2007 at Middlesex County Fairgrounds in East Brunswick, New Jersey on Sunday, September 16th which is also mentioned in another section of this newsletter.

NJRID Hosts Workshop on “Idioms”

It was more than interpreters who showed up for the New Jersey Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf (NJRID) sponsored workshop “Idioms in English/ASL.” The large turnout at the recent workshop held at Ocean County College represented participants ranging from young children to first year ASL/interpreting students to experienced interpreters. The workshop was presented by Jacqueline Frechette, who held everyone’s attention, while conducting the entire workshop in American Sign Language. Discussion both during and outside of the workshop addressed issues including regional signs and variation in ASL. This workshop is part of a continuing series of professional development opportunities being offered through NJRID for interpreters.

Taste of Technology Conference A Success

Claude Stout from TDI, provides the keynote address.

On July 21, 2007 the New Jersey Relay Service and the New Jersey Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing held their first “Taste of Technology” conference at the New Brunswick’s Hyatt Regency. More than 120 people attended, mostly from New Jersey and surrounding areas.

Keynote speaker Claude Stout from Telecommunications for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Inc. (TDI), provided an overview, history and current events about the advances in technology for people with hearing loss. Other presenters included Howard Rosenblum, one of 120 Deaf attorneys in the country who spoke about the ADA and technology, and Kim Calabretta, who discussed CapTel, the telephone service which provides captions of a telephone conversation.

The afternoon workshops included Sprint’s Mike Finneran who spoke about video relay services. DDHH representatives Traci Burton and Jason Weiland provided information about the Equipment Distribution Program and other services provided by the division, while conference host New Jersey Account Manager Aparna Lele presented information on the relay service.

DDHH Acting Director Ira Hock, gave opening remarks.

American Sign Language Story Hour

The New Jersey Library for the Blind and Handicapped (NJLBH), a division of the New Jersey State Library, held its monthly Children's American Sign Language (ASL) Story Hour on April 15, 2007.

Jeff Hurley, Community Relations and Baseball Operations Manager for the Trenton Thunder, read Casey at the Bat by Ernest L. Thayer. While Mr. Hurley read, Boomer acted out several parts of the story. Casey at the Bat is a story about a boy who is the star player of his baseball team. Casey strikes out thinking he can simply wait for the very last pitch to nail it out of the park, losing the game. This teaches him a valuable lesson: not being over-confident before success is guaranteed. After the presentation, Mr. Hurley autographed and donated a copy of Casey at the Bat to the Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf school library.

Students enjoy snacks and crafts.

Students are eager to ask baseball-related questions.

Mr. Hurley and Boomer participated in a question and answer session with the students. Students were eager to learn more about Boomer and the Trenton Thunder as they asked all sorts of questions about the team schedule, the players, the stadium and practice. Mr. Hurley also shared with the students the importance of practice and of reading.

Valentine, a deaf-blind Great Dane, with handler Mari Coderre, came to play and interact with the children during the story hour. After the story hour, the students participated in Thunder-and Boomer-themed crafts.

Attending the story hour were students in grades two through five from the Marie H. Katzenbach School for the Deaf (MKSD) and students with multiple disabilities from Hunterdon County ESC School in Lambertville. Local home-schooled students and students from Ocean and Union County Colleges and Thomas Edison State College participated. Sixty-two people attended.

This story hour was signed by ASL interpreters provided by the NJ Division of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DDHH), a division of the New Jersey Department of Human Services, and accompanied by a PowerPoint presentation illustrating each page along with the storyteller.

The Story Hour promotes English literacy skills for the Deaf and hard of hearing by enabling them to enjoy simultaneously ASL and English versions of books.

Workshops and events such as the story hour are scheduled by Jennifer Servello, Coordinator of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Awareness Program at the New Jersey Library for the Blind and Handicapped. NJLBH is located at 2300 Stuyvesant Avenue in Trenton. For more information about the DHHAP program and story hours, contact Jennifer at 609-530-3957 or jservello@njstatelib.org. The ASL Story Hour will resume in October, 2007. For information about NJLBH and its programs, call Anne McArthur at 609-530-3242.

Students from the ESC pose with Boomer.
